Updates

Name Changes

Since we sent out our initial Pre-Mailer Packet, much has changed! First, we'll start out with name changes. The official name of our grouping of schools is now the ASCE Western Great Lakes Student Conference. Conversely, the name of the event which will be occurring on April 7th - April 9th, 2022 is now the ASCE Western Great Lakes Student Symposium. This name is somewhat long so the official initialism for our event will be WGL 2022.

Competition News

AISC and ASCE have once again partnered to host the Student Steel Bridge Competition (SSBC) at ASCE Student Symposia. WGL 2022 will host the Region 3.1 qualifiers for SSBC.

Rules for all national competitions will be released on September 7th, our team will distribute these rules to all universities in the conference as soon as possible.

Cheating Policy

In an effort to combat cheating, we have created a new policy for WGL 2022. All teams who are caught cheating will be immediately disqualified and the individuals associated with the team in question will be prohibited from participating in any other symposium events. Numerous measures (besides the policy) will be in place to combat cheating.

Judging

Currently, we are looking for qualified individuals to serve as judges for our competitions. We welcome professional civil engineers of all sub-specialties. For newcomers, training will be provided. Prospective applicants must travel to and stay in Champaign, Illinois during April 7th - April 9th. If you know any prospective candidates, please forward their contact information to our symposium chairs.

New Participants

We would like to formally invite Olivet Nazarene University and Ain Shams University to WGL 2022! The student chapter at ONU was founded just after we sent out the Pre-Mailer packet. Ain Shams University will be the first international university to attend WGL.
